say no

RSPB

Say no to a Thames estuary airport

- The Greater Thames is a hub for over 300,000 migrant birds that feed and roost there over the winter months.
- A Thames Estuary airport presents a bird strike hazard 12 times greater than at any other major UK airport.
- Proposals for an airport in the Thames Estuary have now been scrapped six times – there were good reasons.
- The sunken SS Montgomery, with 1,400 tons of munitions on board, would need to be removed. All previous attempts to clear it have failed due to its unstable cargo.
- A Thames Estuary airport will see massive releases of greenhouse gases, worsening climate change, the greatest threat to wildlife and people.

Find out how you can step up for nature and say no at: www.rspb.org.uk/noestuaryairport

Cover illustration © Howard McWilliam/The Week. The Royal Society for the Protection of Birds (RSPB) is a registered charity: England and Wales no. 207076, Scotland no. SC037654. 350-2281-11-12